Building a Successful Unbundled Family Law Practice

A two-day training program, primarily for lawyers, judges, and other legal professionals, also open to anyone interested in adapting limited scope services to their practices.

Forrest “Woody” Mosten will show how you handle the nuts and bolts of this limited scope legal service, design your practice to efficiently represent unbundling clients, and expand your practice by increasing legal access to the underserved.

Participants in this two-day training program will learn:
- The impact of self-represented persons on the family law system
- How unbundling (limited scope representation) meets the legal need gap
- Why offering unbundled services can grow your practice
- The protocols and skills to offer effective client consultations
- To define the scope of representation and using special client engagement agreements
- Monitoring and modifying the scope of representation
- Converting from limited scope to full service representation
- How to ghostwrite letters and court documents
- How to provide negotiation and mediation coaching via limited scope representation
- How to terminate an unbundled relationship
- How to avoid ethical traps of unbundling
- Tips to utilize best practices of limited scope lawyering
- How to replicate models of unbundling are succeeding in the marketplace
- Use of unbundling to reduce family conflict

About the Presenter
Forrest “Woody” Mosten, JD, is a popular presenter at AFCC conferences and frequent contributor to the Family Court Review. Woody is internationally recognized as the “Father of Unbundling” for his pioneering work in limited scope representation to provide affordable and understandable legal services to the underserved members of society. He is in solo private practice as a family lawyer and mediator in Los Angeles, in which unbundling, collaborative practice, representing clients in mediation, and other non-litigation conflict prevention activities are the foundation of his work with clients. Woody is Adjunct Professor of Law at the UCLA School of Law and has taught extensively at other law schools. He is the author of five books and numerous articles about unbundling and other issues of legal access and peacemaking. He was the convener of the first National Unbundling Conference in Baltimore in 2000, Editor of the Family Court Review’s special issue on unbundling in 2002 and served as Keynote Speaker at the 2017 National Conference on Unbundling. Since 1989, Mosten has served as Chair of the Client Consultation Competition affiliated with the International Bar Association. Mosten was appointed to the ABA Standing Committee for Delivery of Legal Services, the ABA Commission on Interest on Lawyers Trust Accounts and has received the ABA Lifetime Achievement Award and the ABA Lawyer as Problem Solver Award for his contributions in Legal Access and Innovative Law Practice as well as the LA County Bar Association Conflict Prevention Award and was named as Peacemaker of the Year by the Southern California Mediation Association. Elizabeth Potter Scully and Robert Merlin (AFCC Florida Chapter) will serve as Assistant Trainers.

Parenting Coordination: Work in the Trenches with High Conflict Coparents

A two-day training program for parenting coordinators, mediators, custody evaluators, lawyers, judges, therapists, parent educators, and other professionals who work with high conflict families.

Coparents who engage in intractable high conflict as they share custody of their children pose particular difficulties for the courts and the professionals involved with them. Most importantly, these situations increase the developmental risk to their children. This nuts-and-bolts training will provide a basic understanding of the parenting coordination (PC) role and present the structures and procedures to work effectively with these cases. This program will address a variety of topics, including structuring functional engagement between coparents as they implement their parenting plans, coordinating professional interventions, and providing dispute resolution and practice management strategies. Videotaped demonstration will be presented to highlight key aspects of parenting coordinator functioning.

Participants in this two-day training program will:

- Understand the characteristics of PC clients that make working with them a challenge
- Understand how PC clients’ involvement in legal adversarial court processes necessitates re-training in functional, parallel coparenting
- Learn how to set up the case for success, from referrals to service agreements and appointment orders, to intake
- Use communication channels and parenting plans/custody orders to minimize conflict between coparents
- Learn strategies to set and enforce structures and rules—court orders and PC procedures
- Discuss PC functions in the case work in a conscious manner: case management, education, settlement, and decision-making
- Learn when and how to involve children in the PC process
- Explore PC practice risk and strategies to manage and minimize professional risk

About the Presenter

Matthew J. Sullivan, PhD is a licensed psychologist in private practice in Palo Alto, California, specializing in forensic and clinical work in the family courts. His full-time private practice focuses almost exclusively on work with coparents. He serves in a variety of court-related roles, including mediator, coparent counselor, parenting coordinator, and consultant. He has written numerous articles and book chapters, presented, and conducted training at national and international venues on topics such as high conflict divorce, parenting coordination, child alienation, and mental health consultation in family law cases. He is currently the Vice President of the Association of Family and Conciliation Courts (AFCC). He served on the AFCC Task Force on Parenting Coordination, which developed the first guidelines for PC practice and was co-chair of the AFCC task force that developed the first Guidelines for Court-Involved Therapists.

Dr. Sullivan is the founder of Overcoming Barriers, Inc., a non-profit organization created to develop innovative programs to address children's resistance/refusal to have contact with a parent. He was awarded the 2012 Joseph Drown Award by the California Chapter of AFCC for outstanding services to children.
