

AFCC FALL CONFERENCE

Integrating Research into Practice and Policy: The Impact on Families and Children

October 31-November 2, 2019
Omni William Penn Hotel
Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania

Family court professionals are increasingly turning to social science research to inform their decision making, processes, practice, and policy. This often results in rigorous discussion about the role, quality, and importance of research in family court and related practices. Have we given research too much weight? What is the role of professional experience and clinical judgement? What happens when contradictory findings are presented? How do professionals apply group findings to individual cases? Join AFCC as we grapple with these challenging questions.

- Parenting Coordination
- Family Law and Social Science: What Should we Believe?
- Working with Transgender Youth in Family Court
- Communicating with Children
- Research Supporting Parental Alienation
- Is Divorce Conflict Addictive?
- Transitional Objects and High Conflict Divorce
- Online Dispute Resolution
- Best Practice and Domestic Violence Safeguards
- Is Spanking a Victim of Scholar-Advocacy Bias?
- Culture, Bias and Practice
- Integrating Research into a Custody Assessment Practice
- Trauma-Informed Practice: How does Research Inform Us?
- Selection Bias in Family Law Research
- Motivational Interviewing Techniques

Psychologist, mental health professionals, lawyers, mediators, and others can earn up to 16.5 hours of continuing education!

Need more information? Go to www.afccnet.org or call 608-664-3750.